

GUAPACHA

SOMETHING

PRONOUNCED: GWÁA-PÁH-CHÁA

Gilberto Torres (musical director) gave this Latin Jazz/Salsa band the name of Guapacha in memory of Amado 'Guapacha' Borcela.

Guapacha was regarded as a Cuban singer of tremendous potential before his death at the age of 32 in 1966. He was an extremely talented musician that didn't have any difficulties when singing, dancing, laughing, and improvising. Guapacha was known to have a unique musical style in which he liked to mix jazz, guaracha, acting, and improvisation.

The word 'Guapacha' can mean several different things. In many Latin American countries the word means pretty or friendly but it can also mean: happy, open minded, different, special, and/or a party person.

Gilberto noticed he had something in common with the person, Amado 'Guapacha' Borcela, and the word 'Guapacha' and decided to name his group after both of them.

Guapacha...something different...
